Learn from fitness experts

When studying at Holmesglen, students receive a hands on vocational education from teachers who have industry experience within their field.

Natasha Iacovelli, one of Holmesglen’s fitness teachers, has also been a Spinning Master Instructor for 13 years. At the World Spinning® and Sports Conference in June this year, Natasha was one of five Master Instructors from across the Globe to lead classes.

Natasha said, “We are all instructors just trying our best to help people achieve their fitness goals on a stationary bike...however we are unified through our passion and commitment to make every ride special and make every person that comes to our classes feel like a champion.”

Natasha is able to pass on her industry experience to all her students studying fitness at Holmesglen.

Do you have students interested in the justice field?

The Advanced Diploma of Justice, which covers a broad range of subjects linked to the different aspects of the criminal justice system, is run at the Waverley campus.

If you have students who are interested in professions such as state or federal police, the courts, corrections, youth justice or local laws (just to name a few), then this is a great course for them. After graduating, many of our students have used the course as a pathway to university degrees in Criminology or Criminal Justice Administration or to jobs in the justice field.

If you would like someone to come out and talk to your students about career and study options in the justice field, please contact the Social Sciences Department.
