Tourism and Events Students China tour

Last month, fifteen of our lucky Diploma of Tourism and Diploma of Events students went on an eight day tour of China. The tour included stops in Beijing, Xian and Shanghai and was designed to give students an insight into the international tourism and events market.

Whilst the students were in Beijing they were fortunate enough to visit the Temple of Heaven, which was built in 1428 and Forbidden City, an imperial palace for emperors during the Qing and Ming dynasties. They also took a hike up a very steep section of the Great Wall of China.

During their stay in Xian, students visited the amazing Terracotta Warriors, which were believed to have been created around 246BC. They also enjoyed a traditional banquet dinner and cultural show. The students final stop was Shanghai, with the same population as all of Australia, it highlighted a faster modern-paced China.

This trip allowed students to gain an understanding of tourism and events in a foreign country, as well as an understanding of the Chinese market which is a major focus for Australian tourism.

This tour was organised by Holmesglen’s industry travel partner, China Travel International and is one of many amazing opportunities that events and tourism students get whilst studying at Holmesglen.

What is Building Surveying?

A qualification in building surveying prepares students for a career as a building surveyor.

Building surveyors are experts in building legislation, including the Building Act and regulations, technical codes such as the National Construction Code and construction standards referenced in the Building Code of Australia. They are responsible for building safety including structure, amenity, accessibility and energy efficiency, which impacts on design, and functionality.

Building surveyors fundamental role is to make sure any new building, be it a house, hospital, office or residential tower, shopping centres or even prisons are safe for people to use. They have an impact on the design, planning and functionality of buildings and also detect and diagnose problems with design issues, construction techniques and materials and they manage the inspection process from foundations through to completion.

What Building Surveying Qualifications are offered at Holmesglen?

At Holmesglen we offer a Diploma of Building Surveying, Advanced Diploma of Building Surveying, Bachelor of Building Surveying and a Graduate Diploma of Building Surveying.

The Bachelor of Building Surveying and the Graduate Diploma of Building Surveying qualification are recognised by the Australian Institute of Building Surveyors (AIBS) as meeting the academic requirements Australia wide for a Level 1 (unlimited) Building Surveyor.

The Diploma and Advanced Diploma of Building Surveying meets the academic accreditation requirements for a limited building surveyor with the Building Practitioners Board in Victoria.

Where can I find work?

Graduates with a Building Surveying qualification may find work in local government, private building surveying firms, construction companies, government departments, health authorities and fire services.
