

1. PURPOSE

To outline Holmesglen's commitment to provide academic, wellbeing and other support services that enable learners to achieve their educational aspirations and enhance learners' engagement experiences within an inclusive, supportive, and safe environment. This policy outlines the principles for Holmesglen's learner wellbeing, support and engagement practices in accordance with Holmesglen's Educational Quality Framework, ASPIRE values and Code of Conduct. This policy also outlines how Holmesglen ensures awareness of support services and support options.

2. SCOPE

Applies to all prospective and current learners, teaching and support services employees.

3. POLICY STATEMENT

Holmesglen is committed to the principles of fairness and equity and acknowledges the diverse needs of all learners. Holmesglen applies a collaborative approach in providing learners with a safe, supportive and inclusive place of learning during their course of study and, actively commits to identify, plan and engage learners with appropriate and timely support by:

- providing learners with information, advice and assistance to access learning, careers and wellbeing support
- partnering with and involving learners in decision making to inform support and engagement strategies for the learning journey
- fostering independent learning and empowering learners to access and engage in support services
- cultivating a learning environment which recognises individual learner needs, values diversity and encourages social inclusion.

4. PRINCIPLES

Support services

- 4.1. Holmesglen is committed to providing learners with timely, accessible, and appropriate support to commence, continue and flourish during their studies.
- 4.2. All Holmesglen learners have access to a range of support services including but not limited to learning skills support, personal counselling and welfare support, disability support, financial support and counselling, careers counselling. Assistance and support services are provided to First Nations learners.
- 4.3. Information on support services is available on Holmesglen's website and, is made available to learners at commencement and during the course of their studies. Learners are referred to support services, as applicable.
- 4.4. Holmesglen provides a comprehensive and customised orientation program designed to assist the transition of all commencing learners to Holmesglen's life. This program includes informing learners of the support resources and services available at each campus and in the online environment.
- 4.5. Learners are informed of Holmesglen's Learner Rights and Obligations during orientation processes and the provision of ongoing support and advice.
- 4.6. Learners are encouraged to advise and provide documentation of any disability prior to commencement of their course of study. Where learners consent to employees' knowledge of the learner's disability, reasonable and equitable adjustments may be made to teaching and assessment arrangements/materials to accommodate learning needs.

- 4.7. Risk indicators are developed to identify individual learners who would benefit from additional support to progress in their course of study. Responsibilities for the identification of learners at risk, interventions and support strategies are clearly documented and monitoring of support activities are communicated across business functions.
- 4.8. Risk indicators are used to identify a learner's suitability to continue to undertake a unit/subject at the end of each enrolment period.
- 4.9. Holmesglen employs systems and processes that facilitate the identification, management and monitoring of learner progression and support including:
 - disengagement from study risk indicators for learners
 - literacy and numeracy proficiency requirements for course entry and progression
 - progression, retention and completion rates, including comparison with previous rates
 - assessment outcomes
 - feedback from parties involved in the learning and assessment process, including industry placement and employers of apprentices and trainees
 - engagement in support services and the outcomes of such support.
- 4.10 Special consideration, discretionary assessment extensions, reasonable adjustment or flexible study options granted to learners, must not compromise academic integrity, standards or the inherent requirements of the course.
- 4.11 The integration of safety management within Holmesglen's safer community programs are monitored and assessed to mitigate personal risks (so far as reasonably practicable) and support learner wellbeing.
- 4.12 Holmesglen provides opportunities for learner feedback and decision-making over matters that affect them. Learner feedback is critically analysed and evaluated to effectively respond to the changing needs of learners.
- 4.13 Learners who are involved in the reporting of non-academic issues are made aware and provided with appropriate support to enable progression through their studies.
- 4.14 Learners who access support prior to census date, are informed of their financial liability through HECS-HELP and FEE-HELP (where applicable).

Diversity and inclusion

- 4.15 Learner diversity and cultural heritage is respected. Strength-based learning and support strategies are implemented, which contribute to a cohesive, culturally supportive, and safe environment that enhances wellbeing and promotes safety in all online and physical learning spaces.
- 4.16 Learners are encouraged to actively participate in their own learning, support and wellbeing. Inclusive and interactive learning environments are created and maintained to encourage active learner participation.

Support services continuous improvement

- 4.17 Holmesglen implements systematic review and analysis processes across the provision of all support services to further enhance initiatives. The effectiveness of these improvements are monitored and reported at relevant Holmesglen committees.

Privacy

- 4.18 Privacy of learner information is managed through the provision of approved access to Holmesglen's business systems and records and is in accordance with the Australian Privacy Principles and other standards related to health records.
